Preface

The lateness in publishing this War Memorial Volume is due, in part, to the administrative duties which the Editors have had to perform and, in part also, to the difficulty in obtaining the records and the photographs of the men who were on active service. The difficulty, doubtless, grew out of the fact that the men were modest and, in some cases, so occupied with their present avocations that they had no time or inclination to give their war record.

Innumerable requests, by circular and by letter, have been made. Yet in some cases it has, unfortunately, been impossible to obtain the necessary information about some men. Therefore their performances appear to be very meagre; but it has been deemed best to give the records as they are rather than omit them.

On the other hand, it is by no means certain that every man who was on active service abroad or at home has been included in the list, notwithstanding the publication in the Year Book for several years in succession. If there has been any omission, the Editors deeply regret it.

In publishing the list of honours and medals, no mention has been made of Service or Victory Medals or of the 1914-15 Star. The Editors have been advised that in all probability they are held by many men who did not give any intimation of the fact. Indeed, only three or four out of the five hundred and sixty gave this.

Great as have been some of the difficulties encountered in the case of the Canadian and the British Expeditionary Force, they were still greater in that of the American. In spite of the sifting process, it is possible that some names have been included which ought to have been omitted and vice versa. That cannot be helped; and the Editors can only say that they have done their best to be accurate.

In putting out the War Memorial Volume, the Editors express their hearty appreciation of the kindness which they have received from many quarters, not only from the majority of the men commemorated, but also from fathers and mothers, wives and sweethearts, as well as from brothers and sisters. They are greatly indebted to Professor G. Oswald Smith, Editor of the Roll of Service of the University of Toronto, with whom they have worked in the closest co-operation. They are deeply indebted likewise to Col. Clyde Caldwell of the Militia Department, Ottawa, and to Major Greenwood, Staff Adjutant of the Royal Military College, Kingston.

All Editors are under obligation to their amanuenses. Therefore the present Editors take much pleasure in noting their indebtedness to Mr. Rupert Davids and to Miss Isabel Hunter, who has been indefatigable in her endeavours to see that her part of the work was well done.

To Messrs. Elliott and Fry and to Mr. Swaine, photographers, London, England, as to Lambert, Weston and Son, Limited, Folkestone, the Editors are grateful for the reproduction of photographs of which the firms hold the copyright. Lest their ignorance as to copyright in other photographs may have led them to trespass upon the rights of other photographers, the Editors add the names of all of whose works they have made use:—

Abernethy, Belfast; Albin, Paris; Ashley & Crippen, Toronto; Askin, Stratford; Aylett, Toronto; Ballad-Yates, India; Barnard, Chicago; Bayley, South Bend; Beresford, London, England; Bingham Home Studio, Toronto; Bownlor, Edinburgh; Bradley, New York; Brooks, LeRoy, N.Y.; Burke, Edmonton, Alta; Bushnell; Campbell's, Winnipeg; Carragh, Galt; Cheron; Clarke, Belleville; Clifton & Co., Bombay; Cooper, Eastbourne; Corlis, Toronto; Costello, London; Couper, Chicago; Crawford; Crooke, Edinburgh; Cunningham, Hamilton; Daniels, Westminster; Davidson Studio; Debenham & Gould, Bournemouth; Dixon, Welland; Dixon, Toronto; W. & D. ## Introduction

In this War Memorial Volume are commemorated not only graduates and undergraduates in Arts and Divinity of Trinity College in the narrow meaning of the name. In it, rightly, graduates in Law, Music, Medicine, Dentistry, and Pharmacy also find a place. Such we had in large numbers, especially in Medicine, between the years 1871 and 1910.

Although the Medical Faculty was the first to begin the work of teaching (in November 1850) after it had been decided to found the University of Trinity College, differences of opinion in regard to policy led to a cessation of the activities of the Medical Faculty for some fourteen years, between 1857 and 1871. At the latter date Trinity Medical School, which was later styled Trinity Medical College, began its most honourable career. From it came an ever-increasing number of well trained men who made its name known in the United States, in Great Britain, and farther afield.

In 1903 the Medical College was amalgamated with the Faculty of Medicine of the University of Toronto, not federated, as was Trinity College itself. In 1910 lapsed the right to obtain Trinity, as opposed to Toronto, degrees on the part of those who had not yet completed their course in Medicine, Arts, Law, Music, Dentistry, and Pharmacy.

Hence it is that this volume contains so many names of men and women belonging to the Medical profession. Because of their training, experience, and skill they were ready at the very outbreak of the war to offer themselves for service. That they did without regard to the breaking up of practice and the possibility of not being able to regain it after five or six years of absence in the interests of the Empire. On the other hand, all the new experience they obtained but fitted them the better to minister to civilian patients, if, on their return to their homes, they themselves still had health and strength unimpaired.

Among the medical men high rank and office were attained by many, particularly by Sir Edward Worthington, Major-General Ashton, and Major-General Fotheringham. General Ashton became Adjutant-General of the Dominion and General Fotheringham, after being Assistant Director of Medical Services in France, where he was known as "honest John", was called to Ottawa to be Acting-Director-General of Medical Services in Canada. In the view of many persons it was a poor reward of such signal services for the University of Toronto, in reorganizing its Medical Faculty, to dispense with him as Professor of Medicine and subsequently to restore him to a secondary position only because of the hot criticism provoked by the original action.

It is remarkable that, besides General Ashton, several other medical men entered first some branch of the combatant service, the Artillery finding especial favour with them. Among these were Col. W. Hamilton Merritt, Col. L. E. Wentworth Irving, Col. G. S. Rennie, Col. T. B. Bradley, who raised and organized the 149th Battalion, and the late Dr. H. S. Monkman. The late Capt Cullum, M.C. (with Bar), on the other hand, transferred to the combatant service after having greatly distinguished himself in the C.A.M.C. In his new field of activity he won his Bar and was recommended for the V.C.

A few medical missionaries, and some ordained men, left their mission fields for the time being, to bear a part in the war. Notable among these were Dr. Aspland, with his wonderful record in Servia, and Dr. H. G. Barrie. Some of these missionaries, as well as other medical graduates, rendered particularly good service in conducting Chinese and other foreign troops from or to the theatre of war.

Among the ordained missionaries who rendered services of this kind, or as chaplains, were the Revd. V. C. Spencer and the Rt. Revd. W. C. White, Bishop of Honan, a Wycliffe man who holds the honorary degree of D. D. from Trinity.

The very first Arts man on our list is, fittingly, the late Sir William Osler, Bart., known to all the world as a medical man and as a medical graduate of McGill. Coming to us from Trinity College School, he spent a year or two here; and he always remembered his early relation to the College, for which, as for his School, he had an abiding affection. When someone was needed to deliver the address at the memorial service which was held for Sir William in St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, shortly after his death, it was to Dr. Macklem, then Provost of the College, that those who were responsible for the service turned.

The next Arts men junior to Sir William Osler to put on the uniform were the Ven. Archdeacon Davidson, '82, the Revd. G. H. Broughall, '83, and the late H. K. Merritt, '86. Of these, the first two were in the Chaplain's Service, Mr. Broughall having served partly as a Chaplain and partly as a Combatant in the North-West Rebellion of 1885. Mr. Merritt, who was an American citizen, served with the American Red Cross, turning to account his abilities and his business experience as a member of the Accountant Staff.

To the Rt. Revd. Charles H. Brent, Bishop of Western New York, fell the honour of being appointed Chief of the Chaplain Service of the United States' Expeditionary Force. A brother Bishop belonging to the Canadian Bench, the Rt. Revd. A. U. dePencier, served for several years as a Chaplain, being promoted from Captain to Colonel. Two Deans, the Very Revd. L. P. Booth, D.D., M.D., C.M., of Capetown, S. A., and the Very Revd. G. L. Starr, M.A., D.D., of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, Ont., also did their share, the former taking up again the work of his original profession, Medicine, which he had practised in the South African War.

Other veterans of the South African War who volunteered for this war also were the late Major Bates, Sir Edward Worthington, Col. L. E. Wentworth Irving, Major Wilkie, Major Southey, Capt. Farrell, the Revd. S. N. Dixon, and Messrs. Pengeley and F. H. Ball.

The first Director of the Chaplain Service of the Canadian Expeditionary Force was the Revd. R. H. Steacy, C.M.G., of Westboro, Ont. A very energetic A.D.C.S. in France was the Revd. A. H. McGreer, M.C., O.B.E., who has just been appointed to the Principalship of Bishop's College, Lennoxville. To him, it is understood, belongs the credit of having instituted the distribution of coffee, the holding of concerts, and the exhibition of films, which contributed not a little to the comfort and the amusement of the men.

Not all the clerical graduates who went to the war did chaplain's duty. Some went as combatants, some as members of the C.A.M.C., and some attached to the C.A.S.C. Conspicuous among the first-mentioned were the Revd. Guy B. Gordon, the Revd. W. Wallace Judd, and the Revd. S. B. Holmes.

Both of our professional soldiers were in the war, Major C. S. Wilkie and the late Major W. G. H. Bates. Our oldest graduate who followed the profession of arms, Major-General C. W. Robinson, C.B., one of the most modest of men, rendered, it is understood, all the service that a "dug-out" of his generation could render.

Graduates who have, so to speak, become professional military men as a result of the war, are Col. H. C.

Osborne, and Col. R. J. Orde. Col. Osborne is still military secretary to the Honourable the Minister of Militia and Col. Orde is Judge Advocate-General.

It will be found interesting to many that thirty-four of the men on active service are sons of graduates. A number of them also are grandsons. In the case of the dePenciers and the Davidsons, Dr. McKeown and Dr. Pearson, fathers and sons were in uniform, though the sons of the latter are not members of Trinity University.

Fortunately nearly every Trinity man reached his destination in safety. A few of them, however, were on board the Laconia, the Ansonia, and the Hesperian when they were sunk. Professor Morris and the late Lt. Wordsworth were passengers on the Lusitania when she was torpedoed.

The "frightfulness" of the Germans in the matter of the Lusitania was responsible for the enlistment of more than one Trinity man. Several of them were at camp at Niagara-on-the-Lake when the news of the dastardly performance was received; and they, quite naturally, determined then and there that they would join up. The incident brought home to them the kind of struggle it was in which the Empire was engaged.

The first man from Trinity, and probably from the University of Toronto, to enlist appears to have been the late Ronald E. Mackenzie-Richards, he being on a visit to his mother in England when war was declared. Certainly he was the earliest of all the Toronto men to fall in battle.

Like Campbell, Hendy, Keyes, and Young, he came from England to Trinity to prepare for a Canadian career as a layman. Thanks to the enlightened views of the Headmaster of Berkhamsted Grammar School, which he and Campbell attended, Richards came to us. The Headmaster was thoroughly convinced that it was highly desirable for young Englishmen intending to settle in the Overseas Dominions there to make their friends and to acquire experience and a knowledge of the country before launching out in professional or commercial pursuits.

Of the five not one remains. All but Hendy fell in the war. Though he survived that, he became a victim of Sinn Fein deviltry in April of this year.

Gallant gentlemen they all were. They all contributed something worth while to our common life in College; and they would all have made a worthy contribution to our Canadian life at large, if they had been spared to carry out their original designs. They had all profited by the thoroughness of the instruction imparted in English secondary Schools.

Among those schools the one from which Young came to Trinity College School and ultimately to Trinity College, has an interesting connection with this province. This is Elizabeth College, Guernsey, the model upon which Sir John Colborne (Lord Seaton) formed Upper Canada College, he having refounded the old Elizabethan Grammar School just prior to coming to Upper Canada as Lieutenant-Governor.

From the autumn of 1914, when men from the Classes of '15, '16, and '17 left us, the College kept giving up men and speeding them on their way. The freshmen (the Class of '18) were keen to be gone; and some of them did enlist after Christmas, 1914.

By October, 1915, we had no further use for Trinity House (familiar to successive inhabitants of it as the "Jag"), so it was closed. A year later, practically the whole of the west wing was also closed; and so it remained till October, 1918. When the Armistice was signed, we had hardly two score men in residence. They were returned men unfit for further service, men who could not pass the medical examination, and those who were under age. They all did their utmost to uphold the traditions of the College, to write to the men over seas, and to send them comforts, especially at Christmas. In this last connection they put on a couple of very clever plays of their own composition.

For one winter our west wing housed the officers of the 228th Bn. C.E.F. Our Convocation Hall was used for officers' classes and our playing-field as a parade-ground. In these respects we bore some resemblance to the Colleges of Oxford and Cambridge, where some of our men were quartered for training after proceeding over seas or were nursed back to health in hospital.

One of our members was fortunate enough when he was invalided to England with a broken leg to be sent to Canterbury. There, when he was able to move about again, he prowled about the Cathedral and drank in something of its beauty and felt to the full the strength of the appeal which it makes to lovers of the Church and of the Empire.

The hospitality extended to the men in England and in Scotland was wonderful, from that first disagreeable winter on Salisbury Plain down to the summer of 1919. The kindness shown went far to make up for the discomforts of life at the front.

With what light hearts the men went to war, as to a summer's camping! How easily, to all seeming, they gave up hopes of a career, of homes of their own, of fatherhood, of civilian service to the state! What high courage, what firm determination, what lofty hopes for the future of the Empire and for mankind animated them!

The men who had to stay at home were to be pitied, whether they were fit or unfit, especially the former. Home ties and dependents at home held many. Productoin of food was the reason why only sons of farmers, somewhat advanced in years and unable to obtain help, did not offer themselves when their classmates were flocking to the recruiting stations.

Then came the Military Service Act to serve in the stead of Providence to them. If the authorities, taking all the circumstances into account said "go", they were more than content and they gladly obeyed. Hence the arrogant line of cleavage drawn by the volunteers between themselves and the "conscripts" was and is much to be deprecated.

Another class of men who deserve the fullest sympathy are those who were interned civilians or prisoners of war in Germany. To the former belonged J. D. Ketchum, '14, who took his degree with high honours this year; to the latter John Beverley Robinson, A. S. Bourinot, the gentle poet, who consoled himself in his captivity by writing verses, H. E. Bridge, J. L. Charlesworth, W. F. Scott-Kerr, and A. A. Harcourt Vernon. Hardest lot of all, perhaps, was that of J. F. Smith and R. A. Forsyth, who died within the enemy's lines, without, however, suffering long captivity, so far as our knowledge goes.

The women were in nothing behind the men. Medical and Arts graduates vied with one another in the variety of the service performed—medical care, sanitation, nursing, ambulance-driving, hospital dietistics, vocational re-education, clerking in Departmental offices in London and elsewhere.

The women at home likewise did good service as conveners and secretaries of Red Cross and other committees. For those of them who lost husbands, fiancés, brothers, or fathers in the war deep sympathy is felt.

Men graduates and members of the Staff were also to the fore in Red Cross work and in other such activities, as well as in recruiting. Chief among them was the Prevost of that time, the Revd. Dr. Macklem. The Revd. Dr. Boyle, now President of King's College, Windsor, N.S., the late N. F. Davidson, K.C., and Mr. Norman Sommerville, K.C., ought also to be mentioned.

Two civilians who did excellent service were Mr. George C. Mackenzie, '00, and Mr. David Keys '14. The former, at the time a member of the staff of the Department of Mines at Ottawa, set up in his office a small laboratory and refining plant; and there he produced all the molybdenite which was employed in hardening the steel used in making munitions. For that he was thanked by the British Government and was presented with a cheque for £1000. Mr. Keys, rejected for active service, was taken on the experimenting staff of the Admiralty and made most valuable researches in electricity.

Great Britain, Ireland, Belgium, France, Italy, Serbia, Salonica, Gallipoli, Mesopotamia, Palestine, Egypt, India, China, Germany:—in all of these one and another of our men saw service; and some of them travelled more than once the whole breadth of Canada. The services and the experiences of the majority were as various as the countries mentioned. What an enlargement of the outlook has resulted only they know who have talked with the men day by day since their return.

When the possibility of having in College again men holding the M.C. and the D.S.O. presented itself, the question naturally arose how will they fit themselves in? Having been accustomed to command, will they be able again to limit themselves to gate rules and other such things that are deemed necessary for ordinary undergraduates? Upon the whole, they have done so; and by their considerateness, their ability to see the other man's point of view, their readiness to shoulder responsibility, they have gladdened those who have had to do with them.

As was to be expected, some courses that were interrupted have not been finished. But the men have in almost every case fitted themselves for active, useful participation in civil life, many of them taking to the Law. They all give promise of turning to good account the experiences of the war. And later on, if they enter public life, they ought to be trusty guides and leaders.

Amid the turmoil of the times, it is not easy to find out whether they think it worth while to have followed the course they chose. Probably, if necessity again arises in their lifetime, they will do as they have already done, for the sake of Canada, the Empire, and humanity. To all of them, apparently, all three mean much more than they did even in 1914.

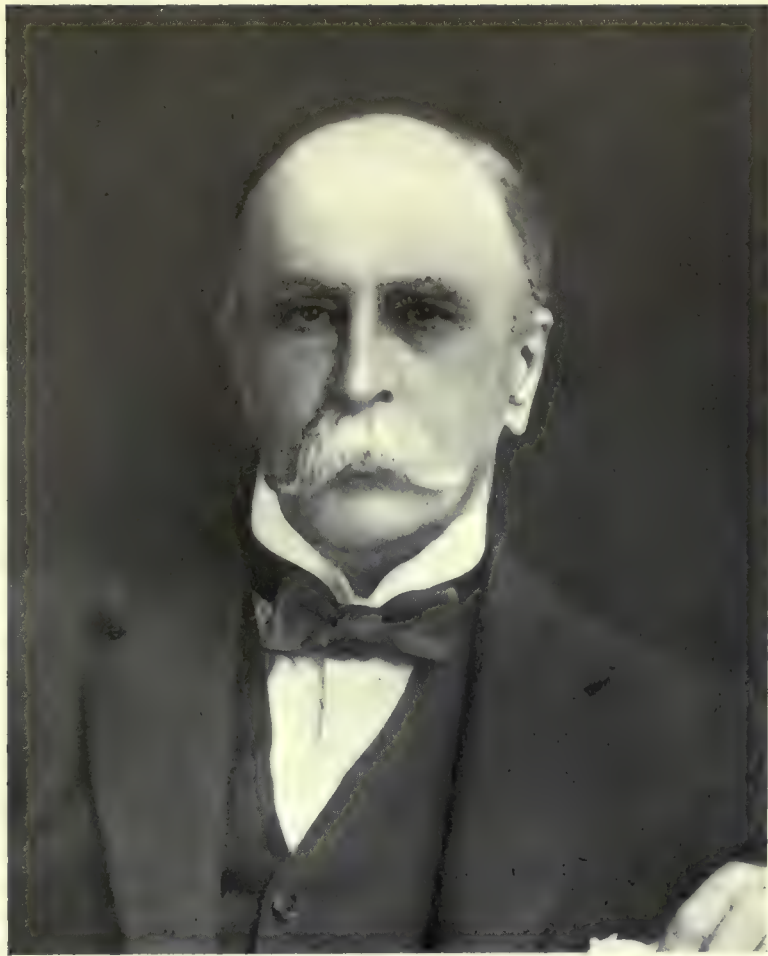

Of all we are proud. They have borne themselves in such fashion as to make still more worthy the traditions of the College, founded by a militant Bishop, in the face of great difficulties, to provide a constant succession of men who shall serve God in Church and in State.
